Kellogg, of Illinois, Tappan, of New York, and Washbarn, of Wisconsin, voted against it. The District Judge of New Mexico appealed before the Committee at the last meeting, and stated that the Terri-tory had 7,300 white native citizens; 2,000 Mexican citizens, under the Guadalue Hi-Mexican citizens, under the Guadalupe Hi-dalgo treaty; 3,000 Mexican allies, 44,000 peons, and 44,000 Indians, about half civil-ized; total, about 90,000. There are fifty slaves only, mostly servants of army and Federal officers. The question was urged, in caucus, if New Mexico should be admit-ted with only 2,750 white citizens, what ex-cuse could be given for keeping Kansas out, with 110,000.

with 110,000. Considerable feeling exists to-night among the Republicans, and the action of the three who voted against Adams's proposition, seems to be generally indersed by the straight-out Republicans.

JESSAMINE COUNTY, KY., Dec. 26, 1860. To the Editors of the Daily Front DEAR SIRE: Three cases have been re-ported here of Kentuckians who have been down among the rebels to get their money overdue for mules sold them. They have overdue for mules sold them. They have been sent back with the declaration, "you can't have money here." When it comes to this, that honest debts are refused to be paid, and our citizens are treated with such indignities, Kuntucky may well look to her own interests in the present crisis. No overtures will tempt her people to join with a herd of revolting rebels who do not scruple to set their faces against all principle of virtue and right, though we are on the edge of the vortex of dissolution and dishonesty.
